President Trump Reacts to China Export Controls

The U.S. has learned through a letter to the World, that China has taken a hostile approach to trade, and will be implementing large scale Export controls on virtually every product they make, and even some not made by them

President Trump has responded to the threat by announcing a 100% Tariff on virtually any product from China. A date of November 1, 2025, or sooner has been mentioned by the President, and he is also going to impose Export controls on any and all of the U.S. critical software.

As this situation develops, we will send more information as it is made public.
